

Ramp Up Your Career!

Position yourself with short-term training and degrees that can lead to new or expanded career opportunities.

Over the next decade nearly 3.5 million manufacturing jobs will likely be needed in these areas:

- CNC/CAMM
- Automation
- Micro-electrical systems and sensors
- Digital fabrication
- Occupational safety
- Industrial maintenance
- Welding

Learn about short-term training that can be done in as little as eight months, includes paid internships with employers who need skilled workers and can lead to an associate or bachelor's degree.

Financial aid may be available for those who qualify.

Lorain County Community College and the Lorain County JVS can help you prepare for a new career or upgrade your current one in these areas. Learn more about training in these areas at LCCC or LCJVS at one of these information sessions:
