At time 00:00:07 : Music playing and screen says “ Interested in Science, Health and Engineering?”

At time 00:00:10: Music playing and screen says “CHOOSE”

At time 00:00:13: Music playing and screen says “Occupational & Environmental Safety Degrees in Northeast Ohio” with logos of both Lorain County Community College and Cuyahoga Community College

At time 00:00:15: Video begins of male speaking begins. He says: “Hello my name is Tyler Jindra. I am currently 25 years old. I’ve been working with Safety Controls Technology for about four and a half years. My job title here is Safety, Research and Field Analyst.

At time 00:00:27: Video begins of a new male speaking. He says: “Hi, I’m Rob Medlock. I’ve been working in the safety profession for approximately 40 years. I started in 1977 as a rookie OSHA inspector and worked my way up to become the area director of the Cleveland OSHA office. I’ve seen a number of folks grow in the industry and I’ve seen the industry change and become more progressive.”

At time 00:00:47: Video changes to a factory floor and then goes back to the first male that spoke and he says : “Everywhere I go, and I mean nobody is perfect, everywhere I go someone has some sort of safety issue. I believe this is a huge aspect in 2017 because people are just unaware.”

At time 00:00:67: Video changes back to the second male speaking and he says: “The need for quality people has always been in demand, more so today with rules and regulations, more technical, stricter and subject to interpretation (video changes to a stack of thick regulation handbooks). If you look at this career path, it’s one of the most valuable I can think of.—at least it has been for me. You get to make a difference in the workplace. You get to prevent injury and illnesses from occurring.” (videos of workers on the job shown)

At time 00:01:18: Video changes back to the first male that spoke: “People who are currently thinking about going to school and pursuing a degree in Safety or in Occupational Health, I’ll encourage you. It is definitely a great feeling to learn (videos interspersed of workers using equipment).It is entertaining. There are just so many different topics and so many different manufacturing facilities that do so many different things that you can pursue a certain expertise and a certain topic.”

At time 00:01:37: Video changes back to the second male who spoke and he says:” I encourage you to make sure you stay on this career path. I can tell you there a lot of opportunities in the Safety and Health arena and you probably won’t find a career more rewarding.
