Professor David Lee
Baskin School of Engineering
University of California, Santa Cruz

Dear Professor Lee,

Thank you so much for the work you and your students did this quarter in developing applications and processes for us to use at the Art Center. We were all so impressed with the work they did.

As Chris noted, she's worked with Silicon Valley engineers for decades, and your students demonstrated several skills that are essential to any professional work:

- Understanding of client needs
- Ability to work with a development team
- Willingness to incorporate feedback
- Capacity to meet deadlines and deliver the product promised

Henry observed that the products produced by the UC Santa Cruz students were significant, and would have been too expensive for a small non-profit like ours if we'd had to get them from external consultants. Further, the multiple options presented will give SCMAC several alternatives going forward.

To top it off, several students have already passed along the work their teams did, and one volunteered to help us implement it. Truly an impressive showing. They should all be proud of themselves.

Sincerely,

Susan Archibald, Board Chair
