

Designing and Teaching Online

The Designing and Teaching Online course focuses on the theory and practice of teaching online. In the course, you will learn the basics of effective course design for both online and hybrid courses. You will also explore best practices in teaching online and hybrid courses.

Modules:

Getting Started

Module 1: Addressing Student Readiness

Module 2: Setting Expectations

Module 3: Designing Effective Courses

Module 4: Creating Assessments

Module 5: Communicating and Building an Online Community

Author Information:

This course was designed by Telfair Fullerton and Sheree Webb from Tyler Junior College. Fullerton is Instructional Designer and Learning Management System Administrator. Telfair Fullerton has been with Tyler Junior College since 1993 and has been an adjunct instructor since 1991. She manages and supports the system used for online and hybrid courses, provides faculty training and development, and assists faculty in developing online courses. Sheree Webb is an Instructional Designer in the Distance Education Department at TJC. She works with faculty to design and develop instructionally sound online and hybrid courses. She has been with TJC since 2009.

This workforce product was funded by a grant awarded by the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration. The product was created by the grantee and does not necessarily reflect the official position of the U.S. Department of Labor. The U.S. Department of Labor makes no guarantees, warranties, or assurances of any kind, express or implied, with respect to such information, including any information on linked sites and including, but not limited to, accuracy of the information or its completeness, timeliness, usefulness, adequacy, continued availability, or ownership.